Dr. Ashley Arzadon

Dr. Ashley Arzadon, originally from Lorton, VA, joined the practice in January 2020. While growing up in the Northern VA area, she swam competitively and continued her career as a student-athlete at the collegiate level at the University of Tampa. After completing her undergraduate degree in 2010, she went on to volunteer for the Medical Mission of Mercy USA in 2011, and obtained first-hand experience in general and minor surgery in various parts of the Philippines. Dr. Arzadon then went on to pursue her interest in Podiatric Medicine & Surgery, and received her medical degree at Temple University School of Podiatric Medicine in 2016. Dr. Arzadon completed her medical and surgical residency under Dr. Michael C. Keller, DPM in Kingston, NY. She has extensive training in diabetic limb salvage and forefoot reconstruction. At this time, Dr. Arzadon is board qualified in the American Board of Podiatric Medicine. Dr. Arzadon is now back in the Northern VA area where she hopes to continue to give back to the community, and would like to return to the Philippines for future medical missions. In her spare time, she enjoys spending time with her fiancé, watching football, and playing with her dog, Maxwell.
